

Year 8 English Academic Year

Our English course covers the Cambridge Checkpoint English course and the National Curriculum Course for Year 8 in the United Kingdom. At the end of this course, students may be able to take the Year 8 Cambridge Progression test if there is a Cambridge Test Centre available.

The curriculum for this course is divided into Reading, Writing, and Speaking and Listening – all essential skills necessary to develop your understanding of language and literature.

The topic for this course is Wider world. The curriculum is focused on time and place, people and the things they do.

The course is divided into units focused equally on fiction and non-fiction. There are no clear dividing lines between fiction and non-fiction texts, language and literature, or between reading and writing skills. Skills learned in one unit are often used in other units. There is however, progression in the order in which the units are introduced.

Each unit starts with an introduction which will prepare the students for what they will learn in the unit, and a starter activity to get them thinking and talking. They will then read several kinds of passages and be asked to practice various skills. At the end of each unit students will do a piece of extended writing to practice what they have learned in the unit – these writing pieces will be formally marked. Students will also complete other writing exercises during the course and also practice reading.

The course includes many different types of literature verse and prose which will develop students' understanding of literature and language and vocabulary skills.

Unit Focus

Unit 1 Fire

This unit focuses on descriptive accounts. You will practise identifying and using precise and evocative vocabulary images and selecting paraphrasing and sequencing notes for informative purposes. You will also learn more about past participles, connective the role of the adverb, and the use of would for repeated action in the past.

Unit 2 Games and sports

This unit looks at informative and instructional writing, including the use of modal verbs and passives. The activities involve constructing and punctuating sentences; selecting, sequencing and editing information; giving a chronological account; writing a diary entry; and giving an informative talk.

Unit 3 Water

In this unit you will read personal accounts of experiences, both natural and figurative, and you will write your own report. You will practise defining, organising, paraphrasing and explaining, as well as describing creatively. More grammar, punctuation and spelling points will be introduced.

Unit 4 The feast

Descriptive writing devices are the focus of this unit. You will also practice reading and writing blank verse and dramatic dialogue and think about how character and humour are created. The activities include looking at adjectival endings and time adverbs, and more vocabulary building.

Unit 5 Other lives

This unit focuses on biographical writing, on adopting a different viewpoint and register, and on precise description. There are opportunities to write a formal letter, a job advertisement and a CV, as well as descriptive pieces. You will also practice new ways of forming sentences.

Unit 6 The race

In this unit you will read for implicit meaning, and look at the importance of structure, style and viewpoint when describing an event. The writing activities include a diary entry, a news article, a narrative extension and a short story, and you will also do further vocabulary, grammar, punctuation and spelling practice

Unit 7 Time and History

This unit focuses on giving accounts of historical events and processes. You will learn more about prefixes and word order, interpret a timetable and compare poems from different cultures, in addition to writing a news report and a staged description, and thinking about sonnet

Unit 8 exotic places

In this unit you will learn about creating exotic and powerful atmospheres and describing processes and objects in fiction and non-fiction. You will look at characterisation and setting devices in fictional prose, as well as further punctuation, vocabulary, sentence formation and grammar structure.

Unit 9 Travel and transport

This unit focuses on place description in travel writing, advertising and fiction, looking at how descriptive language is used differently according to purpose. You will have the opportunity to try out these different kinds of writing yourself.

Unit 10 Animal behaviour

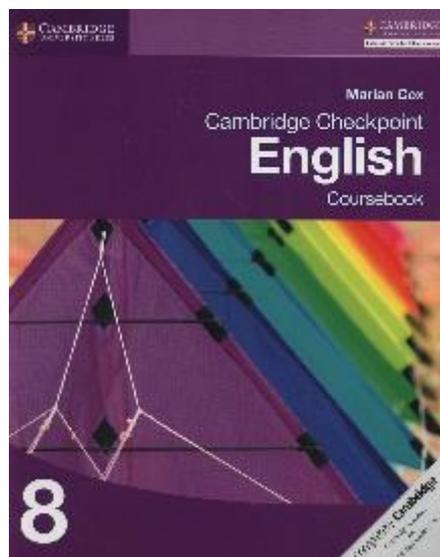

Vocabulary building and paraphrasing are the main focus of this unit. You will be given opportunities to write a descriptive poem and a news report, and to take part in a press conference and a debate.

Unit 11

In this unit you will learn more about effective description, and focus on vocabulary extension, revision of tense and use of the passive, time adverbs, and prepositions, and negative phrasing for emphasis. You will read a review, a plot synopsis and a poem, and write a formal letter and a description of a performance you have seen.

Unit 12 A load of nonsense

This unit focuses on nonsense verse and prose, coined words, pronunciation and spelling anomalies. Ways of expressing the future are discussed. You will practice describing pictures and processes, using dialogue and reported speech, and giving a presentation.

 - Heavy rain doesn't last long. (Irish)
 - Into each life some rain must fall. (American)
 - Roof can feel sun, but roof can't feel rain. (Caribbean)
 - To the sun, a few drops of rain are a flood. (Japanese)
 - The rain won't the leopard but it doesn't wash out its spots. (African)
 - Don't empty the water jar until the well falls. (Kippsan)
- Feed back to the class some of your explanations and compare them with those of other pairs.

Test 3A

The sea

The sea is a hungry dog,
Lies and gapes
He rolls on the beach all day,
With his chafing teeth and gummy jaws,
Hear upon hear his groans,
The rumbling, rumbling stones,
And bones, bones, bones, bones!
The giant sea-dog roars,
Licking his gummy jaws.

And when the night wind comes
And the moon rocks in the stormy cloud,
He bounds to the left and writhes and writhes,
Whining his sea notes over the cliffs,
And howls and howls long and loud.

But on quiet days in May or June,
When even the gulls are on the same
Play no more days only here,
With his head between his jaws
He lies on the sandy shores,
So quiet, so quiet, he scarcely moves.

Text 8A

- i The first stars tremble as if shimmering in green water. It will be a long time yet before they harden into diamonds. And still longer before I can witness the silent games of the shooting stars. Deep in the heart of some nights, I have seen so many racing sparks that it seemed as if a great wind were blowing among the stars.
- ii Gathered for the night on our village square, that patch of sand lit by the flickering light from our crates, we waited. We were waiting for the dawn that would save us. And something indefinable gave that night the flavour of Christmas. We shared memories, we bantered and we sang. We tasted the gentle excitement of a well planned celebration. And yet we were infinitely destitute. Wind, sand and stars. Austere even for a Trappist. But on that poorly lit patch, six or seven men who possessed nothing in the world but their memories were sharing invisible riches.
